Transcript of Speech by Chuck Schumer on March 14, 2024

Madam President, I rise today to speak about the crisis in Israel and Gaza.

I speak for myself, but I also speak for many mainstream Jewish Americans – a group I know well because I am Jewish and I have been a part of it my entire life.

My last name is Schumer, which derives from the Hebrew word Shomer, or Guardian. My grandfather, my first name, was Shmuel, which means "God has heard." My Hebrew school teacher was Mrs. Shomer. My Jewish identity, my Jewish moral compass, my Jewish ethical compass, my Jewish sense of humor, I feel very keenly my responsibility to speak out on this crisis, this tragedy, this catastrophe.

Throughout the crisis in the Middle East, I have been asked many times what I think the greatest challenge is for the mainstream Jew, the mainstream Jew who is not a leader of the community, who is not a leader of the Jewish community, who is not a leader of the Jewish community, who is not a leader of the Jewish community, who is just a member of a community of Jewish Americans that I know very well.

I will provide an answer to the question I have been asked, I know, I know what all the Democrats and some are deeply concerned about the percent of patients, both in Gaza and the West Bank, who are being killed by the Israeli Defense Forces, or "the IDF." Are they too numerous? Are they too high?

We hear so much on issues. When Israel was invaded by our generous, stalwart, loving ally, we hear so much about the number of Hamas terrorists killed, the number of Hamas terrorists killed, the number of Hamas terrorists killed. We hear so much about the number of civilians killed in Gaza, the number of civilians killed in Gaza, the number of civilians killed in Gaza – statements out of the Israeli press and the Israeli courts of law.

Israel's military, the Israeli Defense Forces, I remember, I was in Israel, I was in the Knesset, I was in the Knesset, I was in the Knesset
